A WISE OLD PAGAN.

The old saying that there is nothing new under the sun more broadly applies than those who quote it usually suppose. Intellectual inquiry supposed to be purely modern is sometimes found very highly developed in the writings of the ancients. Why is the average schoolmaster more interested in the physical success of his pupils than in the growth of their mental powers? Why does much modern literature exalt the man of physical perfection as against the man of reason and knowledge? These questions, asked by the Manchester Guardian, have brought to attention the fact that the Roman historian, Sallust, twenty centuries ago discussed the relative values of mental and physical development, and reached sound conclusions, in part as follows:

It was a question long undecided among mankind which of the two, force of intellect or bodily strength, was of greater avail in warlike achievement. Survey the whole circle of human affairs, and you will find that they affirm the ascendancy of intellectual vigor. Yet, strange as it may appear, multitudes are found in every period neglectful of their best faculties. Sunk in indolence and sensuality, without knowledge and without cultivation, they pass through life like strangers in a foreign land; with a direct invasion of the order of Nature, accounting thought a burden and sensual gratification their sole delight. The mind is given us as the ruling principle, the body merely as subservient. By the one we perceive our relation to the gods, our resemblance to the brute creation is attested by the other. On this account it has ever seemed to me that the truest glory consists in the efforts of genius, not in the display of corporal vigor.

SONS OF THE RICH

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., recently told the young men's Bible class, of which he is a conspicuous member, that the life of his father, in comparison with his own, was enviable because "he had to make his own way, and I have never known what that was." On the occasion when he said this the younger Mr. Rockefeller gave a million dollars for the benefit of the starving in Europe, and perhaps he felt that the pleasure of giving would have been greater if he had started life as a poor boy. Doubtless it would have been, but the younger Mr. Rockefeller is mistaken if he thinks that it has not been required of him that he make his own way in the world.

Every man, whatever his station or the accident of his birth, must do so if he wishes ever to amount to anything. The sons of the rich too often fail to make their own way, and that is why they are pitied and sometimes pity themselves in comparison with men who have built their own fortunes. There is abundant opportunity for the sons of the rich to achieve, for wealth as well as poverty has its dangers to be escaped. Its difficulties to be surmounted and temptations to be triumphed over. Perhaps there are more perils connected with the expert management, proper use and wise distribution of a great fortune than with its acquisition, though the latter requires a peculiar ability that may remain undeveloped in the case of the former. During his productive years the older Rockefeller had a harder but a simpler life than is his son's.

Fearless women of New York seem to be more successful in catching thieves than the police. One recently captured a burglar with a spoon, which he mistook for a revolver. Another tripped up a burglar and sat on him until the police arrived. A third, on finding a burglar in her bedroom, collared him and "beld him against the wall" until help arrived. So far so good; but the feminist had prevented that a woman has "equal rights" with a man to be shot by a burglar.

A prize fight staged for the benefit of the devastated France by the daughter of J. Pierpont Morgan brought out society and netted $100,000. Devastated France might have not considerably more but for the fact that the stupor, like the "war" itself, must have been many a decade for every "appealment" is over. It would be adding a good deal of too stupor to invite them to beat each other up just for war orphans.

Although this country is the record breaker in the matter of libraries, Prof. Burgess Johnson estimates that sixty million Americans "never see a book" and that not more than four cent of the people ever enter a bookstore. This can hardly be more than a rough guess, but it is no doubt true that the Americans who extend their reading beyond the newspapers and the most popular magazines are relatively few.

After all the good things President-elect Harding heard about candidates for cabinet positions, and other places in the federal service, it is no wonder that he had to take a vacation. It must have been an endurance contest to spend ten or twelve hours a day listening to the praise of every man who figured that unless he were appointed the administration would not be a success.

Hanging did not seem to decrease the crop of bandits in the middle ages, there being record of 62 gibbetted in Paris in a single day. The provision for severe penalties than the present, reported to be under serious consideration in New York, may be advisable, however.

Mrs. Cathleen Nielson Vanderbilt, divorced wife of Reginald C. Vanderbilt, who was quietly married to Sydney J. Colford, Jr., also a divorcee. Their wedding came somewhat as a surprise to society, though it had been rumored for more than a year that they would be married. The couple secured their marriage license and were quietly married the same afternoon at the home of the bride.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

MOLLYMAUKS.

"I think," said daddy, "that I have told you a story of mollymauks once before."

"Yes," said Nancy, "and you said that they were large birds known also as albatrosses."

"You said albatrosses were their real names, didn't you?"

"Yes," said daddy, "that's right. They're birds, and mollymauks is the family name given to all the smaller families of albatrosses. In fact, it is the name given to all albatrosses which are not as large as the great wandering albatross known as the 'goney'."

"There are five kinds of mollymauks in the Southern waters. Their family names are the Black-Browed Albatross family, the Yellow-Necked Albatross family and yet another family of albatrosses very much like these who are also known as the Yellow-Necked Albatrosses and yet who are a little different from these cousins."

"There are two great families of the Sooty Albatrosses also."

"The Albatrosses were talking."

"We're the ones seen most often," said Mr. Black-Browed Albatross.

"That's so," the Sooty Albatross said, "but we're the most interesting and the most beautiful. We do not mean to be concealed when any of us admit that, but it's a fact and we state it as a fact, that's all."

"Well, didn't we have a time following the boat which was traveling along these waters?"

"Ah, yes," Mr. Black-Browed Albatross said. "We were fed such good things. And we let our voices on the boat see us and hear our voices and know what we were like because they were friendly with us and gave us food."

"It wasn't just because they gave us food that we were so friendly but anyone knows that when a creature is invited for a meal it means they're liked and thought well of and that their company is desired."

"So it was nice that we should be asked to eat. They threw the food down to us and then what fun we had going up to the ship and getting it!"

"How tame we became," the Sooty Albatross said. "Some of us went along with the ship for a long distance. We used to leave the ship and its people from time to time and they didn't know whether we had left for good or not, but back again we would come and with us we'd bring our best manners."

"We knew they wanted to see us and know us better and we'd talk and chatter and show off and perform our regular tricks and all."

"We'd rise from the water and when we did so we'd beat our wings together and patter with our feet so we could get a good start to rise from the sea and fly off."

"The Yellow-Necked family would come along, too. But they were more apt to join us when we were taking a great fly."

"The people liked seeing us and they said we were like airships known as mollymauks."

"They enjoyed seeing us with our heads forward looking for food. They liked to see how we managed our own airships—ourselves."

"They liked to see the wonderful way we could fly."

"They admired our great wings and our long beaks and our funny faces and our handsome white bodies. They said they liked to see our tricks of rising from the water and of getting down to the water and of going so high in the sky that they couldn't see us."

"And they liked our understanding of sailing and flying and of the ways we had discovered to be the best and clearest ways of getting along through the air."

"And they were kind to us, so we showed them all we could do."

"And you, of all the albatrosses," said the Black-Browed Albatross, "you were beautifully and more graciously than any of us."

"Yes, you're a beautiful bird with your soft coloring and white body and your wonderful gracefulness."

"So," said daddy, "they showed what they could do for the people who were traveling in those distant Southern waters and they showed that so airships are so beautiful and graceful of perfectly understood and managed as the private airships of the mollymauks or albatross families."

THEY COULD DO FOR THE PEOPLE WHO WERE TRAVELING IN THOSE DISTANT SOUTHERN WATERS AND THEY SHOWED THAT SO AIRSHIPS ARE SO BEAUTIFUL AND GRACEFUL OF PERFECTLY UNDERSTOOD AND MANAGED AS THE PRIVATE AIRSHIPS OF THE MOLLYMAUKS OR ALBATROSS FAMILIES."

Not in His Calendar.
Little Dickie is an Episcopalian, and therefore accustomed to celebrating many church holidays. The other day he stood looking at the signs in the window of a closed drug store. He was thirsty, very thirsty, and longed for Monday to come when he might invest in something cool. Laboriously he spelled out the sign: "Not Sunday." His countenance assumed a look of disgust.

"Well," he ejaculated, "I've heard of Ash Wednesday, Shrove Tuesday and Good Friday, but to have the drug store closed 'cause it's Not Sunday is a new one on me. There's no collier for that day in the church book."

What a change has come over Sing Sing prison. Really, it is scarcely worth while to live in that exclusive summer and winter resort since Warden Lawes issued his famous edict in an effort to make Sing Sing safe for democracy, he ordered that all prisoners shall wear the gray uniform prescribed by the prison regulations. Many of the wealthy prisoners have been wearing only the gray trousers of the uniform, blossoming out each morning in fancy silk shirts of exclusive patterns, soft or stiff collars of latest style, and expensive cravats. But under the new order now in effect you can't tell the "400" set from the common herd. It's really very exasperating. How's anybody to know who's who? The institution will surely lose "class." And that, by the way, is just what Warden Lawes intended.

SERVICE CHARGE

APPROVED BY THE ## BUREAU OF STANDARDS

The Bureau of Standards at Washington has recently reported its findings to Congress in the matter of a "fair final figure of the price of Gas to the Federal and District Government." The price for Gas was fixed in 1916 and since that time the Commission has from time to time allowed increases in the price to be charged to private consumers, but considered it had no authority over the Government rate. Congress, therefore, called on the Bureau of Standards to investigate the costs and efficiencies of the gas company and present such data as would enable the fixing of a "just price for the gas purchased by the Government."

The Bureau found that the operating results showed "efficiency and careful management on the part of the Company," and that the advance in operating expenses had been due principally to the higher prices of coal and oil. In fact, the increases in the cost of these items was found to be over 52 cents per thousand cubic feet.

In determining the fair price for gas sold to the Government, the Bureau based its figures on a Three-Part Cost Analysis. The report says:

"WITH REGARD TO ACTUAL COSTS OF GAS SERVICE THERE IS FAIRLY GENERAL AGREEMENT THAT AN EQUITABLE ALLOCATION CAN BEST BE MADE BY CONSIDERING THE COST OF THE GAS SERVICE TO CONSIST OF THREE PARTS, VIZ: (1) AN OUTPUT COST, (2) A DEMAND COST, AND (3) A CUSTOMER COST."

The Bureau determined the output cost in Washington, and then computed the demand and customer costs not only for the Government business but for private consumers also. IT GIVES THE FOLLOWING TABLE OF READINESS-TO-SERVE COSTS:

READINESS-TO-SERVE CHARGE PER MONTH FOR VARIOUS SIZE METERS:

Meter	Capacity Cubic feet per hour	Demand	Consumer	Total Service Charge
3 Lt.	80	.25	.30	.55
5	115	.35	.36	.65
10	150	.50	.30	.80

(The Balance of table is omitted in this advertisement for brevity.)

THIS RECOGNITION OF A READINESS-TO-SERVE CHARGE IS OF PARTICULAR INTEREST AS HAVING COME FROM AN IMPARTIAL GOVERNMENT BUREAU IN A REPORT TO CONGRESS.

In fixing the "Service Charge" in the Kingston case the Commission stated:

"The computations do not include any allowance for return and depreciation on investment for meters and meter installations nor for taxes.

The foregoing indicates a proper charge of 60c a month for this readiness to serve above. This, however, is in excess of the amount requested by the Company, and in view of the opposition to the charge in all its features, it will not be increased beyond the amount requested, although such increase would correspondingly diminish the consumption charge."

VASSAR-REBELS AGAINST EARBORBS

Protesting against earbobs and other extremes in feminine fashion students at Vassar College appeared in classes Thursday dressed as their mothers did when they went to college.

With but few exceptions the entire student body is rebelling against the over-elaborate styles that have prevailed until they had caused their own destruction. Heads are assuming their long-forgotten shape and even ears are visible. The girls are wearing dark skirts and middie-length hosiery. Hair has been slicked back into tiny knots. The few girls who entered the dining room or classroom with hair dressed elaborately were hissed and forced to retire to their rooms.

LIBRARY SURE TO GET HALF

Proceeds From Clubwomen's Event at High School Through Board's Action—Oppose Pearson Bill—Superintendent Michael's Report.

The members of the board of education at the regular monthly meeting held at the high school Friday evening voted that if the Federation of Women's Clubs want to use the high school auditorium on the evening of April 12, they not only must pay the usual terms but give 50 per cent of the proceeds to the library.

To the Honorable, the Board of Education: Gentlemen: I beg to submit for your information the following tabulation of school expenditures for the years ending July 31, 1915, to 1920, inclusive:

	1915	1916	1917	1918	1919	1920
1. For all ordinary school purposes	$121,750.00	$132,962.00	$143,791.00	$177,827.00	$155,520.00	$170,545.00
2. For bonds and interest	47,484.00	12,709.00	33,866.00	22,322.00	44,523.00	40,048.00
3. For night school					680.00	1,067.00
4. Total for all purposes	169,234.00	145,671.00	177,657.00	210,149.00	200,723.00	211,660.00
5. Total enrollment in day schools	3827	3879	3842	3834	3884	3846
6. Enrollment in night school					298	79
7. Teachers' wages, day schools	85,111.00	91,626.00	94,994.00	97,212.00	98,225.00	108,514.00
8. Cost per capita, exclusive of bonds and interest for all ordinary expenditures	21.81	24.28	27.43	26.38	26.00	28.22
9. Cost per capita on basis of teachers' wages alone	22.21	23.59	24.72	25.09	25.68	30.79
10. Cost per capita on basis of expenditures for maturing bonds and interest	12.40	3.27	8.51	5.83	11.45	10.40
11. Total cost per capita in night school					2.28	15.24

It will be noticed from the table that per capita cost has been figured on three bases. All ordinary expenses for school maintenance, including salaries, fuel, repairs, insurance and general upkeep of the property in my opinion is the true basis on which to figure per capita cost. I do not believe that per capita cost returned to the per capita cost for the year given for the reason that the high school building for which these bonds were issued will serve many generations yet unborn. The per capita cost of these bonds should properly be distributed over a period of at least fifty years. If the retiring bonds must be figured in the operating expenses of the school system then our per capita cost would be $24.73 for the last school year.

For means of comparison on salaries I am selecting the years ending July 31, 1916, the first year the new high school was occupied, and the last school year ending July 31, 1920. In 1916 the total amount paid for teachers' salaries was $81,526; in 1920, $108,514, an increase over 1916 of 33 per cent. Janitors' salaries in 1916 amounted to $3,866; in 1920, $11,974, an increase of 30 per cent. From vouchers paid in 1915 I find that plumbers were charging the board of education 60 cents per hour and carpenters 50 cents per hour. From vouchers audited this evening I find plumbers are charging $1.25 per hour and carpenters $1.10 per hour. In 1916 we paid out for fuel $5,619; in 1920 the expense for fuel was $10,258, an increase of 82.15 per cent. In 1915 the contract price for egg coal was

$5.75, for the current school year the contract price for the same quality of coal is $12, an increase over 1915 of 108.7 per cent. So it is with practically every item of expenditure for the maintenance of our schools. No board could have more economically administered its great trust that you have during the years covered by this report. You have spent hours in devising ways and means to make a dollar go as far as possible, sometimes almost to the extent of leaving undone certain repairs and improvements which in ordinary times would have been considered absolutely necessary to be made. These constantly increasing expenses have come about through the condition of the times in spite of your careful administration of the school funds. I would further report that during the month of January, I have paid visits of inspection to all the schools and on each recurring visit I am thoroughly convinced that our teachers are faithful in the performance of all their duties and that the children are making good progress. Last week the written and oral examinations occurred in all the elementary schools and the regents' advanced examinations at the high school. Full returns on the result of the examinations have not yet reached my office. I hope to make examinations and promotions the subject of my February report. Respectfully submitted, M. J. MICHAEL, Superintendent of Schools. January 28, 1921. The board of education then adjourned.

SURE GUILTY OF SOMETHING

That's What Didn't Happen to the Farmer's Old Squire Much Did.

Read an old New England squire with knowledge of the statute law is found, but who has decided views as to justice. Not long ago a certain Hank Miller was brought before him, charged with larceny. It appeared from the evidence that Hank had stolen a horse from a farmer to go some hauling and that, during the period the animal had remained in his possession, he had fed it from the owner's stock of grain, although the agreement was that Hank himself should supply the feed. He was charged by the farmer, therefore, with the theft of two bushels of oats and corn.

"The statutes made and provided," the old squire announced ponderously, "that theft is to convert to your own use the property of another. The horse is the servant of the owner, not of Hank, and Hank converted them to the horse's use, not his—so I acquit Hank of stealin' them oats—he ain't guilty of larceny."

Hank rose, thanked the squire and was about to leave the room, when the old man called him back.

"As I said, Hank," he remarked, with a gleam of humor in his eye, "you ain't guilty of larceny, but you shore air guilty of something, and I'm goin' to keep you to jail for a month for it."

That old King Winter has swept his hand over the Atlantic is evident from the ice-coated condition of vessels arriving in New York. The illustration shows the fishing trawler Crest, which arrived in New York recently from Boston, covered with ice from bow to stern, resembling a small iceberg. The crew suffered greatly from the cold.

Whether Alfred Nagel, rejected diplomat from the new Latin republic, his wife and their American-born baby should be deported or not is the next big problem before the state and labor departments at Washington. The secretary of state objected to the landing of Nagel because of his activities in the German secret service in the Russian revolution. When it was discovered that Mrs. Nagel was about to become a mother, the couple, instead of being deported immediately, were permitted to enter the country for a period of four months. The baby, a girl, was promptly christened Martha America Regina Nagel. The problem is to be solved by the state and labor departments in "whether the American-born child can be deported with its parents."

SHANDAKEN BEAT LANESVILLE

The Shandaken and Lanesville basketball teams met at the Shandaken-Albion Community Hall, Wednesday evening, January 26, the result of which was a victory for Shandaken. The game was fast and clean throughout. In the first half, the Shandaken team ran up a score of 11 to 3. In the second half, the Lanesville team changed their line-up in hopes of leaving the Shandaken team in the rear.

Thompson and Yerry played a very fast and clean game. Van Nos Dall made a number of baskets owing to the superior pass work of his team mates. Much credit should be given to the Lanesville team for their clean playing and sportsmanship.

The young men of Albion and Shandaken have formed a club to promote the interest and welfare of the team and community and would like to have the support of every one who is interested in the moral welfare of the town.

SPRING TERM AT HIGH SCHOOL

The spring term opened at the high school on Monday with the usual large attendance of pupils somewhat increased by the new class of grammar school graduates.

Wednesday afternoon the opening game in the girls' interclass basketball league was played by the Freshman and Sophomore girls. The sophomores proved to be the better basketball players and won out by the score of 23-7.

Friday morning Prof. Michael was in attendance at the regular chapel exercises. He gave a short talk on the expense of maintaining and operating successfully the schools of the city. He also urged that the pupils take advantage of the opportunity offered them on Friday evening, February 4th. At this time, the Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis will lecture in the high school auditorium under the auspices of the Webster-Hayne debating club of the high school.

Miss Miriam Pitts, a graduate of K. H. S. and the writer of the music to the school song, was present at the Friday morning assembly and favored the student body by playing while they sang the words so dear to the heart of every student and graduate of K. H. S.

Friday afternoon the sophomore boys defeated the freshman boys in a game of basketball. The score stood 27-26 when the final whistle blew. At the same time, the junior girls handed out a defeat to the senior girls to the tune of 24-16.

Pilgrims Brought Many.

The Pilgrims in America were more inclined to look after gaspewards than books, but several hundred volumes were brought over on the Mayflower, including 400 books owned by William Brewster, the leader. Fifty-four of them were in Latin, and a number of others in Greek and Hebrew, while still others were devoted strictly to systematic theology, volumes of controversy with the Roman church, volumes on teleology, polemical works and discourses on the Reformation. Every family had a Bible of course, and everyone read it. They started at the first chapter and read the book from cover to cover.

Of 21 Pilgrims the inventory of whose estates is given in T. G. Wright's "Literary Culture in Early New England," not one had more than 41 worth of books, and 11 had 25 or more, though only four of these owned more than 100.

Remarkable Twists.

Chlorine is known to drift from fifty to sixty miles of water during a day's work and to be coming the worse for it, but they are known by a green and opaque water of which a physician reports that he took 12 pints of water a day and a whole tubful of it during the night.

WORLD SECRETS BEING SOUGHT

Sixteen Exploration Expeditions Are Now in Progress or in Contemplation.

New York.—Sixteen exploration expeditions are now in progress or in contemplation after four years of inactivity in this line of scientific research due to the great war. Most of these enterprises have been undertaken or projected since the armistice, and they recall the fact that mother earth still has important biological, zoological, geological, ethnological and meteorological problems to be solved. One of the most important of these enterprises is the British Antarctic expedition, headed by Commander John Lachlan Cope, F. R. G. S., formerly of the British navy. It is financed for $750,000, includes five ships, 125 men, several airplanes and extensive wireless apparatus. The undertaking is to require five years and its objects are the circumnavigation of the Antarctic sea, a dash to the south pole, the locating of new whaling grounds and the discovery of supposedly rich gold, silver, coal and ruby fields.

Capt. Roald Amundsen, who discovered the south pole in 1911, left Nome, Alaska, last August in an attempt to reach the north pole. His ship, the Maud, had already spent nineteen months in the Arctic, north of Asia and Europe, and had successfully made the northeast passage. He expected the Maud to be locked in the ice pack and to drift toward the pole when the Arctic winter ended. In negotiating his way to Nome he was frequently compelled to blast a path through the ice.

Capt. Amundsen was last heard of off East Cape, about 170 miles north-west of Nome in the Bering strait. The explorer, on account of high wages and scarcity of men, was handicapped by lack of help, his only companions being three sailors and an Eskimo cook.

Other Prospects on Foot.

The other interesting expeditions projected or now under way are as follows:

Siberia—Capt. Axel Landmark and Capt. John Vane, in a 50-foot power boat are on a 4,000-mile voyage to Kolyan river, using a primitive chart made in 1878 by Nordenskiold, a Swedish explorer on his voyage from Norway to Japan via the Arctic ocean.

Greenland—Knut Rasmussen, Danish explorer, who returned from the east coast late in 1918, after studying Eskimo tribes, is preparing for another expedition of five years' duration. Lange Koch, another Dane, is planning a scientific survey of North Greenland, his main purpose being to establish Danish sovereignty in that territory.

Africa—Four expeditions are in progress, namely, the Mackie ethnological expedition to Central Africa for the purpose of studying the Bushmen, one of the chief pastoral tribes of Africa, a district west of Uganda; the British natural history of museum expedition to the west coast and the Job-Maria mountains; the date of Abraham's effort to find the sources of the Nile; the Indian Ocean, and the ethnological tour of the Belgian portion of Tanganyika and the eastern Congo, by T. A. Buron, who explored the Nile and reached Senegal, finding a strange race of pigmy savages, as well as gathering a wonderful collection of fossils and butterflies.

Bahia Land—Freight T. MacMillan, who was with Admiral Peary when he was sent to explore one of the remotest islands in the far north. He expects to establish a camp 700 miles south of Bush in Northwest Greenland, where his Quaker Land expedition found four whalers. He will attempt to circumnavigate Bahia Land and

The Amazon—Exploration of this great river to be undertaken by a large party of American scientists, headed by Dr. Henry H. Rusby of Columbia university. The party expects to leave early in January and to traverse more than 1,000 miles of almost virgin land in the upper reaches of the river basin.

Dr. Rusby is to be accompanied by Dr. David Starr Jordan, president of Leland Stanford Jr. university and Dr. Carl H. Eigenmann of the University of Indiana, who are to study fish and reptiles; Dr. Ruthven of the University of Michigan, who is to study frogs, and Dr. Edward Kromer of the University of Wisconsin, and Prof. A. H. Gill of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who will investigate seed and volatile oils.

Ecuador and Peru.—Collections of flora and fauna are now being gathered for the American Museum of Natural History in New York by Capt. Harold E. Anthony and George E. Cherrie.

Pacific Islands.—Solution of the origin of the Polynesian race is one of the objects of a survey of the Pacific Islands planned at a recent conference of scientists at Honolulu under the auspices of the Pan-Pacific Union, representing the United States, Canada, Great Britain, Australia, New Zealand, Hawaii, the Philippines and Japan. An expedition will be sent to the South seas for this purpose by Yale, Harvard and other institutions.

China and Tibet.—The third expedition, backed by a fund of $250,000, is soon to start from Central Asia under the leadership of Roy Chapman Andrews, associate curator of mammals in the American Museum of Natural History, New York. The Chinese government is expected to co-operate with this enterprise.

Arrangements are being made to provide hospitality and entertainment for American women visiting England and to co-operate with corresponding committees in the United States.

The president for the United States of the English-speaking union is Mrs. William H. Taft. The new women's committee has among its members Lady Violet Astor, Viscountess Gladstone, the countess of Kerry, the countess of Rossmore and a lot of other women prominent in London society.

and 21 injured. The disaster, in the opinion of the government, is the seventh out of eight cases of sabotage, committed between August 14 and October 21.

The strike of stevedores in this city has held up in port 111 ocean-going steamers, instead of the normal 50 usually here. The accumulation of cargoes amounts to thousands of tons, and the glut is accentuated by the importers' financial difficulties, due to fall in the exchange.

Dog Saves Life of Baby Hanging From Bridge

La Salle, Colo.—Today is only a common dog, boasting neither beauty nor blue blood, and the possessor of only three good legs, but he saved the life of his young master, a two-year-old boy. The dog's persistent barking attracted the mother's attention, and she went to investigate.

About 100 yards from the house runs the Mitten canal. The baby had undertaken to cross a little foot-bridge and lost his balance. But in falling, his dress had caught on the bridge in such manner that it held and strangled him. First aid methods were applied, and in a few hours he was able to rejoin his faithful friend.
